

NEWS

Guidance led to award

GLEBE

Victoria Crow

ALICE Anderson has won a National Volunteer Award for her work leading the Glebe Girl Guides.

The 22-year-old Chippen-dale resident was presented with her award by Tanya Plibersek MP at a ceremony on December 5.

“Volunteering as a Girl Guide leader is very rewarding. I enjoy organising events such as district camps and day trips,” Ms Anderson said.

Ms Anderson became a junior leader at age 16 and her work in the Glebe chapter means there is now a waiting list to join.

“You can see the girls have so much fun and they gain skills and confidence in themselves,” she said.

With activities ranging from visiting bee-keepers to taking part in Clean Up Australia Day, it’s no surprise there is strong local demand to take part.

GUIDE ACTIVITIES

- Games and crafts
- Camping ability and learning how to build a fire
- Walking around the suburb looking at plants and animals
- Help Clean Up Australia day
- Clothes collection at the City to Surf

POPULAR VISITS

- Australia Post mail centre
- Sydney veterinarian teaching hospital
- Sydney fire station

Girl Guides: Alice Anderson being presented with her National Volunteer Award by Tanya Plibersek.